Greetings folks,

Please find attached several draft reports developed following a meeting of regulators and technical experts on endocrine disrupting chemicals held in April. The reports are a “state-of-play” that seeks to summarize the current approach many countries and regions – including, but not limited to, the U.S. and the EU – are taking to regulating EDCs and potential EDCs. We’ve reviewed them here at EPA, and would like to borrow Julie Callahan’s distribution/invite list to circulate in case folks have any additional comments or edits to make.

We will clean up the docs (e.g. remove commenter’s names, etc.) and send our final comments to the UN on Friday, so we ask for any input by COB, Thursday, July 13.

Thank you!

Here are the three UNEP Reports that contain the edits/comments (in “track changes”) OCSPP/EPA:

1.

2.

Overview Report 2

Please note EPA did not make any additional comments on report 2 which is based on information from organizations/countries who classify/list endocrine disrupting substances which the US does not. In other words, not germane to EPA tiered evaluation approach.

OSCP also prepared comments on addenda documents to reports 1, 2, and 3 which were prepared by UNEP contractor in response to meeting discussion:
